ANZAC Message

This special issue of our community newsletter marks 100 years since our involvement in the First World War and we look at just some of the personal stories of our own local war heroes.

When Australia went to war in 1914 over 2000 local residents answered the call and enlisted.

The ANZAC Centenary (2014-2018) has given us an opportunity to honour the service and sacrifice of our original ANZACs, as well as the generations of Australians who have defended our values and freedoms, in wars and peacekeeping operations.

Council continues to support local RSL Sub Branches to commemorate ANZAC Day. I hope you can find time to attend one of these services to honour those who made the supreme sacrifice.

It is important we improve our understanding of our wartime history, particularly for younger Australians. It is my hope that long after this ANZAC Centenary program has ended we continue to keep the legacy alive for future generations.

Council puts a great emphasis on preserving our local history. Mascot and Rockdale libraries hold a lot of material including photographs and maps for anyone to learn more about the history of our community or their family. Council's historians will also be able to help with more information on the stories featured in this issue.

Mayor Bill Saravinovski

Postings from the Front

In November 2016 Bayside Council published a book titled Postings from the Front: the City of Botany Bay and World War I written by Anne Slattery, Jenny MacRitchie and Paula Grunseit. The book examines the effect of the war on the local communities of Botany and Mascot and details the experiences of a number of local men – and women – during the Great War.

Copies of the book are currently available for sale ($30) or loan from the following Bayside Council libraries:

Eastgardens Library | 152 Bunnerong Road, Eastgardens

Mascot Library | 2 Hatfield Street, Mascot

Rockdale Library | 444-446 Princes Highway, Rockdale

SOLDIERS

When Australia went to war on 4 August 1914 the world changed for every community. Locally, more than 2,000 men from the Bayside Local Government Area answered the call of King and Country and enlisted.

Aboriginal men also sought to serve, including Private Douglas Grant, Australia's only known Aboriginal Prisoner of War from World War I. Grant died at Prince Henry Hospital in 1951 and is buried in a military grave at Eastern Suburbs Memorial Park.

Nurses too contributed to the war effort at home and overseas. Following are some of Bayside's individual stories.

George Valentine Arthur (1888-1952)

Ordinary Seaman George Arthur, a wool scourer, joined the Royal Navy in 1907, serving on HMS Pyramus. In 1916 he transferred to the Royal Australian Navy, serving on board HMAS Una in the Pacific.

In later years he was an alderman on Botany Council from 1938 until 1952, and mayor in 1942. Arthur Park, Botany was named in his honour.

Vinton Baker (1884-1916)

Vinton Baker, a resident of Bruce Street, Bexley, was working as an iron moulder when he enlisted in August 1915.

Vinton arrived in France in June 1916; just one month later, on 20 July 1916, he was killed during the disastrous Battle of Fromelles.

Phyllis Mary Boissier (1884-1976)

Matron Phyllis Boissier of Botany embarked on the hospital ship Kyarra on 28 November 1914. In Egypt she treated the wounded from Gallipoli, receiving the Royal Red Cross (2nd Class) Medal from King George V in 1916. She also served in France during the Battles of the Somme.

After the war she was appointed Matron of Royal Prince Alfred Hospital. She was the first female Justice of the Peace in New South Wales.

Thomas Burt (1893-1918)

Botany boy Thomas Burt was working in Queensland as a shearer and cook when he enlisted in mid-1915. He lost several toes to frostbite suffered at Gallipoli. Invalided home, he soon joined up again.

Tom was killed in action near Villers-Bretonneux on 3 April 1918, leaving two war diaries for his fiancée in London. Older brothers James Burt and Harry Burt also served.

Carrington Hampden Deane (1895-1966)

Carrington Deane, a clerk from Wollongong Road, Arncliffe, enlisted in August 1916, aged 21. Carrington had previously tried enlisting in the army but had been rejected because of his poor eyesight.

By August 1916 the army was taking many men it had refused in the August of 1914 and Carrington's second application was accepted.

Uriel Clyde Deane (Clyde) (1898-1988)

Carrington's younger brother, Clyde, actually enlisted the year before Carrington: in August 1915. On Clyde's enlistment forms he said he was 18 years of age. However, Clyde was only 17 when he enlisted. Clyde joined the 3rd Battalion and was sent to Egypt and then to France.

William Joseph Denison (1896-1972)

William Denison was a ship's carpenter from Mascot. From a family of bakers, he served in Egypt and France with the 5th Australian Field Bakery, providing bread to the soldiers on the front line.

He later transferred to the 57th Battalion and saw action at the Battles of Amiens and St Quentin Canal.

Jack Emanuel (1893-1952)

Jack Emanuel was a bookmaker's clerk living in Railway Street, Rockdale, when he enlisted in May 1915 at the age of 21.

He served at Gallipoli and then on the Western Front.

Jack was an outstanding soldier and was twice decorated with the Military Medal.

Frank Goold (1883-1917) and Edward (Tom) Goold (1890-1918)

Frank Goold of Lauriston Park and his nephew, Edward (Tom) Goold enlisted together, serving with the 35th Battalion on the Western Front.

Frank Goold was killed on 31 May 1917, just before the Battle of Messines. Sadly, Tom Goold was also killed at Mont St Quentin, near Péronne, on 1 September 1918.

Douglas Grant (1885-1951)

Douglas Grant, a Ngadjonji man from the upland rainforest country in the Atherton Tablelands was a mechanical draughtsman and wool classer.

Australia's only known Aboriginal World War I Prisoner of War, Grant was captured during the First Battle of Bullecourt in 1917.

George Hankin (1892-1969)

George Hankin was a 22-year-old carpenter from Judd Street, Rockdale, who enlisted in December 1914 and served until the end of the war. Like most early enlistees, George was sent to Gallipoli and did outstandingly well there, particularly during the evacuation when he acted as a special orderly, taking messages to and from the front line.

Charles Henry Lester

Charles Lester, an electroplater from Terry Street, Arncliffe, enlisted in November 1916. A year later, while fighting in the trenches in France, Charles was hit by a piece of shrapnel from a high explosive shell.

A New Testament in Charles' breast pocket prevented the shrapnel from piercing his heart and so saved his life.

Clifford Small

(1895-1916)

Clifford Small, known as Ned, was an engine cleaner and a resident of Booth Street, Arncliffe, who enlisted in August 1915 when he was 19 years old.

On the afternoon of 5 August 1916, as Ned's unit was approaching the front line at Pozieres, he was hit in the leg by a piece of shell. German shelling was so heavy stretcher bearers could not reach Ned until the next day. He died from his injuries on 10 August 1916.

Alfred Phillip Price Lever

(1895-1975)

Blacksmith Alfred Lever was a sapper with the 14th Field Company of Australian Engineers, seeing action at the disastrous Battle of Fromelles in July 1916. Wounded at Kemmel Ridge in April 1918, he lost his left leg below the knee.

Later he served as alderman and mayor of Mascot and Botany Councils for many years.

Lever Street in Rosebery was named in his honour.

George Oscar Seaforth

Nilson (1892-1940)

Carpenter George Nilson was the son of Alderman and Mayor Oscar Nilson of Botany. He served with the 9th Light Trench Mortar Battery in Belgium, firing three inch Stokes ammunition at enemy targets.

He was hospitalised with pleurisy and gas poisoning during the war and never regained full health.

Thomas Tregent

(1896-1929)

Thomas Tregent was a Mascot fellmonger who was wounded twice during 1916, at the Battles of Pozieres and Flers, while serving with the 1st Battalion. In 1918 he was transferred to the Australian Army Postal Corps.

As a postal orderly he delivered long-awaited mail to the troops on the front line. He died of stomach cancer in 1929, leaving a widow, five young daughters and a baby son.

Frederick Charles Waine (1888-1915)

When war broke out in 1914 Frederick Waine, a resident of Rockdale, was Council's Deputy Town Clerk.

When Fred enlisted, the Mayor granted him a leave of absence from Council.

Fred was sent to Gallipoli and was killed there on the first day of May 1915. Waines Crescent was named in his honour.

Robert Edgar Willison (1896-1915)

Robert Edgar Willison, a commercial traveller, enlisted in September 1914, aged 19. Robert was sent to the Gallipoli Peninsula and was killed in action on 25 April 1915.

Robert's father, George Willison, was an alderman on Bexley Council. Willison Road was named in his honour on 28 September 1915.

John David Wright (1895-1955)

John Wright was a fellmonger who served in France with the 3rd Battalion. He was wounded in action at the Battle of Menin Road on 22 September 1917. Later he took part in the Spring Offensives of March and April 1918 and the Second Battle of Albert. His older brother, Herbert (SERN: 4302) was killed in action in France during March 1917, just four days after he arrived on the front line.

Rosebery Racecourse

Rosebery Park Racecourse (now Eastlakes) was the staging ground for the 1st Light Horse Regiment of the 1st Light Horse Brigade during the early years of World War I. Today, a memorial to the Light Horse stands at the former entry gates of the racecourse which was re-developed during the 1960s. In 2015 the reserve in which it stands was renamed Light Horse Reserve.

Daceyville: A Soldiers' Settlement

After his return from the war, Irish-born Hugh McOscar (SERN: 2407) and his young family were granted a house at 1 Sergeant Larkin Crescent, Daceyville. Their new home had 'electric lighting, running water, a large yard for a garden and room for a duck!'

Battle of Fromelles

The Battle of Fromelles was a planned offensive designed to draw German troops away from their position on the Somme. At 6pm on the evening of the 19 July 1916, Australian and British troops launched a massive assault against a heavily fortified German position known as the Sugar Loaf salient. The charge, assault and battle raged through the night and on the morning of the 20 July the soldiers of the Australian division had a casualty list of over 5,500 men, including many of our local residents.

Vinton Baker, known as 'Vin' by his mates, had been a resident of Bruce Street, Bexley, before he enlisted in 1915. Vin went 'over the top' with the rest of his Battalion in the early morning hours of the 20 July. He made it through No Man's Land all the way to the German trenches only to be shot through the forehead at the last moment.

Herbert Bolt had lived just a few streets away from Vinton before the war - in Orpington Street, Bexley. Like Vinton, Herbert was assigned to the 55th Battalion and was at Fromelles in July 1916. On the morning of the 20 July, Herbert was in a communication trench near the front line when the Germans attacked. According to accounts provided afterwards, Herbert fought ferociously before he himself was shot through the head and killed.

Benedict Dunstan had lived in Connemarra Street, Bexley. He too died on the 20 July 1916 from wounds suffered at the Battle of Fromelles. The Army was not able to recover their body. Benedict had enlisted in July 1915, Vinton in August and Herbert in September. The experience of these three young men who lived only a few streets away from each other, gives an indication of the terrible toll the war took on our local community.

In 2006, the Australian Army began to hear reports that Australian soldiers were buried in pits at Pheasant Wood, France, in an area near the Fromelles battle zone. An investigation was launched and in 2008, two mass burial pits were discovered. The bodies of 250 British and Australian soldiers were uncovered, all of whom had died on the night of the 19 to 20 July 1916.

A massive combined effort of forensic teams began the task of removing the remains and conducting post-mortem examinations in order to identify them. Meanwhile, the Commonwealth War Graves Commission was building a new cemetery at Pheasant Wood in order to reinter the fallen soldiers. The dedication ceremony was held on the anniversary of the battle - on the 19 July 2010.

Among the Australian soldiers now lying in marked graves in Fromelles (Pheasant Wood) Military Cemetery are Private Vinton Baker, Corporal Herbert Bolt and Private Benedict Dunstan.

Improved Waste Recovery

Council has improved waste recovery in the kerbside clean up service and will divert 280 tonnes of waste from landfill based on a 3 month trial period and this is expected to almost double when the service starts operating at full capacity.

Council received a NSW EPA grant for a flatbed truck used on clean-up week to collect items such as refrigerators, freezers, washing machines, televisions, metals and mattresses. These items are kept at Council depot temporarily until recyclers collect them to recover the material. This includes 1,800 mattresses which were stripped to recover approximately 24 tonnes of metal and 5 tonnes of foam.

Nearly 200 residents dropped off approximately 4 tonnes of green waste, 3 tonnes of metals, 1.5 tonnes of e-waste and 50 mattresses during the most recent February drop off.

MINISTERS' AWARDS FOR WOMEN IN LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Tracy Moroney, Cheryl Brady, Ron Hoenig MP, Meredith Wallace, Samia Dirani and Wendy Dillaway (absent, Kristina Forsberg).

Six staff members were nominated in the 2018 Ministers' Awards for Women in Local Government.

General Manager Meredith Wallace received a highly commended in the General Manager/Senior Staff category. Tracy Moroney, Manager Airport Business Unit, won the Minister's Award for women working in a 'non-traditional role' in Local Government.

"Bayside Council was well represented at these Awards and I think it says a lot about the culture of Council when staff can compete with the best in New South Wales. I am proud of the work Council is doing breaking down gender stereotypes and I hope more women are encouraged to take on leadership roles," Mayor Bill Saravinovski said.

STRONGER COMMUNITY FUND GRANTS

Bayside Council recently finalised the second and final round of the State Government's Stronger Community Fund Grants with over $500,000 awarded to 15 local community groups at a function on Thursday 22 February.

"The Stronger Communities Fund has given local residents, community groups and Council an opportunity to deliver infrastructure and services by working together," Mayor Bill Saravinovski said.

Recipients were: Kingsgrove Community Aid Centre, Bayside Business Enterprise Centre, The Bay Community Garden, South Eastern Community Connect, Rockdale Rugby Football Club, Botany Family and Children's Centre, 3 Bridges Community, The Deli Women and Children's Centre, Children with Disabilities Fund, Moving Forward Domestic Family Violence, Nurses on Wheels, Shopfront Arts Co.Op, Moving Forward Domestic Family Violence, Macedonian Orthodox Church St Petka, St George Youth Services.

Applications are now open for Council's Community Grants of up to $5,000. Not-for-profit community organisations can also apply for NSW ClubGRANTS. Details on how to apply for these grants are at haveyoursay.bayside.nsw.gov.au

COUNCIL PROJECTS

Booralee Park Upgrade

The new amenities building in Booralee Park is complete:

- ▶ New public toilets for the community.
- ▶ Accessible toilet with baby change facilities.
- ▶ Change rooms which include showers and toilets for sporting clubs.
- ▶ Secure storage area for sporting equipment.
- ▶ Secure storage for grounds keepers equipment for maintaining the park and the fields.
- ▶ Canteen and BBQ area for use by sporting clubs.
- ▶ Undercover areas and informal seating.

The building has been constructed with robust but attractive materials such as glazed bricks, security perforated screens and sustainable composite timber cladding.

Flagpole at Mascot Memorial Park

For the first time in 105 years, Mascot RSL Sub Branch Members will get to raise the Australian Flag at its pre-ANZAC Day March thanks to Bayside Council installing a flag pole at the cenotaph in Mascot Memorial Park.

Mascot RSL Sub Branch President, Pam Richardson, said the Members were very excited and extremely grateful for the gesture. "In the past our flag bearers have stood throughout the service, lowering the hand held flags at the appropriate time. It will be wonderful to have a proper flag pole this year," she said.

Sir Joseph Banks Park

Council has received a grant from the Greater Sydney Local Land Services to enhance the natural habitat in Sir Joseph Banks Park, Botany.

The grant will be used to improve the biodiversity of the park through the bush regeneration programs, weed control and restoring endangered ecological communities and fauna habitats.

In accepting the grant, Mayor Bill Saravinovski said the Sir Joseph Banks Park was a regionally significant area as it was home to a number of protected fauna and flora species such as the Green and Golden Bell Frog and the Eastern Suburbs Banksia Scrub.
