

Sydney Gateway

Site investigations on the cycle and pedestrian pathway along Airport Drive from Tuesday 16 July

Sydney Gateway will provide a new alternative route to enhance connections and reduce travel times to Sydney's ports.

We will be drilling boreholes in the ground to test the soil conditions at multiple locations on the cycle and pedestrian pathway along Airport Drive, from Tuesday 16 July for up to four weeks.

This work will provide us with important information on the environmental conditions as part of the proposed Sydney Gateway project.

Our work area, and an example of the cyclist and pedestrian management in place, is shown on the map over the page.

Improving traffic flow fewer vehicles and less stopping on surface roads

Investing
in roads around Sydney Airport

Better and faster
reliable trips
for people, business and freight

Our work schedule

Work hours will be:

- Monday to Friday, between 8pm and 5am

We will work at night to minimise traffic impact and for the safety of our workers, motorists and the public.

Shared cycle and pedestrian pathway, Tempe

How will the work affect you?

Work will generally happen in short timeframes. The noise level will be low when compared with normal background noise in the area.

We will also help to reduce noise by turning off machines and vehicles when they are not being used.
